

The present invention provides antibodies that neutralize infection of influenza A virus. The invention also provides nucleic acids that encode and immortalized B cells and cultured plasma cells that produce such antibodies. In addition, the invention provides the use of the antibodies of the invention in prophylaxis and treatment influenza A infection.