

Blade arrangement 10 for a hair clipper comprising a comb 30 with an frontal edge 34, which contains tooth elements 36; a blade 40 with an frontal cutting edge 44, which contains tooth elements 46, wherein the cutting edge at its front end is downwardly sloped towards the lower cutting edge, and wherein the blade is configured to be movable relative to the comb; a connecting device, which connects the comb and the blade relatively movable to each other; and a pretension element 16, which preloads the comb and the blade against each other, wherein the cutting edge of the blade has a wave shape, wherein the frontal cutting edge of the blade contains at least three tooth elements of different lengths and/or the edges of each tooth element have a curved shape according to the wave shape.