

Device for installing sedimentation traps in an aquatic environment is made of a metal rod with a through thread, in a middle part of which a rounded platform disk is placed, onto which sedimentation traps are installed, which are secured on both sides by nuts along the thread.