

Forceps for sampling thalamus from the hemispheres of human fetal brain consist of stainless steel handles and oval-shaped, convex tips.