

Method for burning agricultural crop straw with biomass packaging includes the technological processes of straw preparation, treatment with concentrated saltpeter solution, drying, baling, feeding straw into furnace, and combustion, wherein drying is performed after straw preparation and treatment with concentrated saltpeter solution, and baling is performed prior to feeding straw into furnace and combustion. Additionally, prior to treatment with concentrated saltpeter solution, straw is packaged by placing biomass in special closed containers.