

Vehicle steering mechanism with a mechanical damper includes a yoke attached to the steering mechanism, which is connected via tie rods to the steering arms. The tie rods are connected via spring bushings secured by locknuts.