

Automatic gear shifting device on bicycle consists of a roller, two pivotally connected double-arm levers, to which two cables are attached. At the same time, one of the cables is connected to the bicycle gear-shifting mechanism via a pulley, while the other cable is connected to the handlebar to adjust the pedaling force while riding.