

Exhaust gas recirculation device of an internal combustion engine comprises an exhaust channel, an exhaust gas recirculation pipeline connected to the exhaust channel. It also includes means for cooling the exhaust gases, made in the form of an expansion machine, thermodynamically integrated in the exhaust gas recirculation pipeline, which is kinematically connected to an electric generator.