

Image transmission and reception system in LoRa networks comprising an image source, a LoRa transmitter and a LoRa receiver, and antennas. Furthermore, comprising a microcontroller configured to use a wavelet transform for additional image processing on a transmitting side, and a microcontroller configured to use an inverse wavelet transform for image restoration and configured to remove artifacts and store a restored image on a receiving side.