

Combined machine for opening industrial furnace tapholes comprises frame, on which permanently mounted drilling unit is installed, consisting of drill rod and drill bit, wherein drilling unit is kinematically connected to hydraulic rotary drive with the possibility of reverse rotation and axial movement in the direction of taphole.