

Method for obtaining rice malt include washing, disinfecting, soaking, germinating rice grains, and drying malt. Plasmochemically activated aqueous solutions with a peroxide concentration of 300-700 mg/L are used as disinfectant and germination stimulant during the soaking stage of grain.