

Hydroelectric power plant contains hydrodynamic blades and an electric energy generator, wherein a transmission is installed between the hydrodynamic blades and the generator, designed to regulate the generator rotation frequency depending on the power.