

Method for obtaining a wear-resistant coating involves applying coating by ion-plasma sputtering using cathode pressed into steel mandrel. Composite material based on F-40 elastomer with aluminum (Al) and copper (Cu) nanopowders is used as cathode material, wherein the specified components are pre-mixed, pressed, and pressed into steel mandrel.