

Mobile shelter for protection of people during emergencies is made in the form of a cone-shaped structure with a rounded top and flat sides. It contains a double-layered steel shell filled with mineral wool and a ventilation system with two-stage air filtration.