

Cutter's blade consists of a shank, a body with side surfaces, and a cutting edge. The cutting edge has a smooth surface on one side and a serrated shape with alternating grooves and teeth on the other side. Wherein, each groove also has a serrated shape with other grooves and teeth, and the pitch of some teeth is greater than that of others.