

Sliding door track features a U-shaped section, which creates an open cavity. The side surfaces of the section are ribbed, and to the left and right, at equal distances from it, there are two curved hollow mounting chambers, each containing two semicircular sections and one rectangular section.