

Water supply photovoltaic power plant with a gravitational liquid energy storage device comprises photovoltaic modules and a direct current drive motor powered directly from the photovoltaic modules. Furthermore, the plant comprises an upper reservoir, a pump, a lower reservoir, a hydroturbine, a synchronous generator, and a power generation control system. Water is used as a working medium of the gravitational liquid energy storage device.