

Psychological resilience training complex consists of a metal modular container housing a control room, a vestibular section, a smoke generator, a flashing beacon, an audio system, four spring-loaded balance trainers, and a video surveillance system. Training complex additionally includes a maze made of ropes and chains, a strobe light, and a spatial orientation section.