

Method for reducing negative environmental impact of skid trails, according to which a grass cover is created on the soil surface of the skid trails using sod-forming grasses. In addition, seedlings are planted, as well as seeds of fast-growing tree species and energy crops are sown. After the growth period, the resulting biomass is harvested.