

Method for obtaining iron-containing complex compound involves carrying out a complexation reaction between a ligand, which is aliphatically substituted compound, and an iron salt in boiling solution. Tris[3-aza-4-((5-octyloxy)(6-methyl)(2-pyridyl))-3-butenyl]amine is used as ligand, and the complexation reaction is carried out in ethanol solution.