

Method for improving indoor climate in livestock facilities consists in placing non-fragrant flowering plants on shelves. Along with them, coniferous and fragrant plants are additionally used.