

Surgical ligature needle comprises a needle tip with a notch near it and a rounded part thereof with a curvature. Wherein, the rounded part of the needle with the curvature is made in the form of a crescent, and the notch comprises a slot that forms a hook-like thread grip with a bent end directed in the direction opposite to the needle tip. The sickle-shaped arm of the thread grip is directed toward the needle tip.