

Concrete mixer consists of an electric motor, a reducing unit, and a mixing drum installed on supports, inside which is a blade mounted on a rotating shaft. The blade rotation shaft is located coaxially inside the drum rotation shaft; inside the blade rotation shaft is a lever connected to an electromechanical actuator controlled by a controller configured to change the blade's angle of inclination during mixer operation.