

Rapid-testing unit for fire detectors contains a laser emitter, a photoresistor, a camera, a thermocouple, technological holes for reducing excess pressure, and at least one port for connecting the rapid tester and introducing hazardous fire factors. Wherein, the chamber is made in the form of an isolated space in which the parameters of fire hazards are generated and monitored.