

Device for intensifying heat transfer, placed in channel with circular cross-section, comprises two plates arranged at a 90° angle to each other, wherein leaves are arranged along the length of device's plates on both sides, leaves are formed as strips twisted around their own axis.