

Method for determining tolfenamic acid involves the development of a plasticized polyvinyl chloride membrane for an ion-selective electrode for determining tolfenamic acid, containing an electrode-active substance and a plasticizer. The ionic associate of crystalline violet tolfenamate is used as the electrode-active substance of the membrane, and tricresyl phosphate is used as the plasticizer.