

Linear-dynamometric micrometer consists of a clamp, a heel, two measuring surfaces, a micrometer pair with a spindle, a digital readout device, a drum, and a calibration device. Wherein the calibration device consists of a strain gauge connected by an electrical wire to a hub with a touchscreen display.