

Interactive educational and conference hardware-software system includes a touchscreen interactive table, a screen mirroring system, and a cloud-based educational repository. Wherein the touchscreen interactive table is connected to the screen mirroring system; the screen mirroring system is connected to the participants' personal computing devices and to the cloud-based educational repository via a network connection; and the cloud-based educational repository is designed to enable centralized storage of and access to electronic content.