

Complex air purification unit is modular in design and consists of block-modular air intake chamber and air duct with noise silencer, frame-type pre-filters, air purification filter cartridges, weather shields, and air heating system. Filter cartridges are two-stage; each inlet module of air intake chamber is equipped with weather shields with roller shutter system; structural components feature anti-corrosion coating; and unit's air heating system is additionally equipped with infrared heating system.