

Portable box for processing small parts includes a housing designed to allow a view of its interior from above, and its left and right sides have working openings equipped with seals. It measures 310–380 mm in length, 220–260 mm in height, and 210–230 mm in width. The housing is designed to allow for air purification and is equipped with at least one light source installed to illuminate the interior of the housing.