

Method for obtaining antibacterial textile material, in which textile material is dyed in the presence of intensifier and using dye-surfactant nanosystem, specifically using cationic, anionic, and nonionic surfactants.