

Container-type tank for growing, keeping, and breeding fish, crayfish, and shrimp consists of steel shipping container, inner sealed basin, aquaculture water recirculation system that includes mechanical filter and biological filter, aeration system, and temperature control system. Tank also includes UV sterilization system and automated water parameter monitoring system.