

Mine support for mine working consists of arched working face secured by arch support. Linear hinges are installed on working face at the highest point of arch support along the entire length of working.