

Thermoelectric medical heat meter consists of a primary heat flux transducer and a unit for measuring and displaying the heat flux value. It also includes an ambient temperature sensor and a pulse oximeter.