

Fishing hook comprises a hook capable of rotating relative to the components of the fishing tackle. It additionally comprises an auxiliary hook mounted on the shank of the main hook between two stoppers, designed to rotate around the shank of the main hook.