

Apparatus for determining hydrogen sulfide, mercaptan sulfur and carbon oxysulfide in liquefied gas consists of a sample collector, Drechsel absorption flasks connected in series by polyvinyl chloride tubes, a gas meter. It additionally includes a T-shaped stand on which the structural components are mounted and secured.