

Method for increasing growth rate of store pigs during fattening involves the use of an enzyme preparation in the diet. Throughout the pig-rearing period, an enzyme preparation containing amylase, protease, endo-1,4- β -glucanase, endo-1,4- β -xylanase, and α -galactosidase is used at a rate of 0.6 kg/t.