

Fishing feeder consists of a housing with openings for bait to exit and attachments for securing it to the fishing line. Wherein, the housing is made cylindrical and consists of two parts connected by a hinge and secured with a latch. Mesh elements are installed at both ends of the housing.