

Foundation of buildings and structures consists of vertical load-bearing elements connected by top chord. Lower ends of vertical load-bearing elements are connected to one another to form bottom chord.