

Device for final, anti-friction, non-abrasive treatment of the working surfaces of distribution shafts cams consists of a base and a movable part containing an electric motor connected to the tool by a rod designed to rotate around its axis. The device is equipped with a spring-loaded pressure mechanism and a tracing device for tracking the profile of the distribution shafts cam surface.