

Level crossing automation monitoring system includes a central control room equipped with an automated workstation featuring a computer unit and a printer, as well as a GSM/GPRS radio communication unit. Level crossing automation status sensors, a level crossing status data processing unit, and a level crossing radio communication unit are also installed along the railway vehicle route. The level crossing radio communication unit includes an SMS modem connected to it via data exchange circuits.