

Method for producing ryazhenka-based drinkable porridge includes receiving and standardizing raw milk, homogenization, pasteurization, baking the resulting mixture, cooling, adding native chia seeds, fermentation, cooling, and packaging of the finished product. Native chia seeds are added to the resulting baked milk at a rate of 2% of its weight, wherein the seeds are added to the mixture before fermentation.