

Embodiments of the present invention provide a method and device for supporting port control. The method comprises: receiving port related control information; and performing port related operations on a port according to the port related control information, wherein the port related control information comprises at least one of: a port identifier, service-class information, first routing information, priority regeneration related information, port transmission rate related information, bandwidth availability parameter related information, and transmission selection algorithm related information.