

The invention relates to a bilayer tablet composition comprising metformin hydrochloride and amorphous dapagliflozin, and at least one pharmaceutically acceptable excipient, wherein both layers comprising microcrystalline cellulose as a filler and at least one pharmaceutical acceptable excipient. Also, the composition has immediate release layer and an extended release layer.