

The present invention relates to Brassica oleracea plants being resistant to the plant pathogen Albugo Candida and wherein the resistance is encoded by one genomic region on chromosome 2. The present invention further relates to methods for identifying the present Albugo Candida resistance and to molecular markers for use in the present methods.