

The present invention is in the technical field of crop protection and primarily relates to certain herbicidally active compositions comprising mesosulfuron-methyl and tris(2-ethylhexyl) phosphate (TEHP) which can be employed against harmful plants, for example in fields of crop plants. The invention also relates to corresponding methods and uses of these compositions.