

A smoking product using splined leaves, such as cannabis/hemp leaves, orientated and configured to achieves a unique cylindrical/tubular structure wherein the splines (e.g., the veins of a leaf structure) are arranged to achieve a burning chamber that creates a non-laminar airflow resulting in an enhanced burning environment.